

Misunderstanding Words

By

Alan Masterton
Final Draft
23 September 2013

Alan Masterton (C)

alanmasterton.yolsite.com

INT. CHURCH VESTRY- 1PM

FADE IN

Bunker, cupboards, tables and chairs.

TAM, 43, revs collar, dark woolen clothes.

JOE, 31, tall, black t-shirt, jogging bottoms.

TAM

Joe, see when you do the youth work next week, do you think you could do a presentation for the people on safe sex.

JOE

What do you mean?

TAM

Nothing much just a wee power point document telling them about married life and relationships.

JOE

Um, a'right then, I'll see what I can do.

Joe goes to fetch his diary to mark it down, but realises if his wife reads this and she gets the wrong idea so he writes canoeing.

INT. LIVING ROOM- 10AM

Fancy living room & carpets with colourful furniture.

Joe has left for work and it's just his wife left in.

HEATHER, 29, housecoat, mud mask, shower cap and slippers.

The telephone rings.

HEATHER

Hello.

TAM

Hi.

HEATHER

Whats is it rev.

(CONTINUED)

TAM

Nothing much, it's just that I asked your husband to make a presentation yesterday for the youth groups and was wondering how he's getting on.

HEATHER

Well, he's left his diary and I'll take a look for you.

Heather picks up the diary and reads quietly to herself, canoeing.

.....Oh, I see what you mean. He wouldn't be able to tell you much coz he's only done it twice in his life. The 1st time he came back greeting his eyes out, and the 2nd time his hat fell off and he lost it in the water.

FADE OUT